Section I. What students understood

During this lab, the students had a better understanding of the core concepts this week, and actually did okay when it came to dictionaries. The lab was relatively empty, and I think that most understood what was necessary.

Section II. What students didn't understand

Some students continued to struggle with how return worked, and how functions worked. Dictionaries were actually one of the easiest tasks for most of the students.

Section III. How the assignment that you helped out with might be improved

I see no improvements necessary, it taught the concepts very well.

Section IV. What you personally learned with respect to one or more of the course outcomes listed in the next section

Personally, I learned a lot more about how to help people who were slightly already frustrated. This is a valuable skill, as many people struggle to be helped when they are very frustrated.
